

A Helping Hand

Concept & Art : Samaresh Chatterjee

This title was developed in an author-illustrator workshop held in Goa from 26 to 29 June 2012.

ISBN 978-81-237-6683-6

First Edition 2013 (Saka 1934)

© Samaresh Chatterjee

₹ 25.00

Published by the Director, National Book Trust, India

Nehru Bhawan, 5 Institutional Area, Phase-II

Vasant Kunj, New Delhi-110 070

Nehru Bal Pustakalaya

A Helping Hand

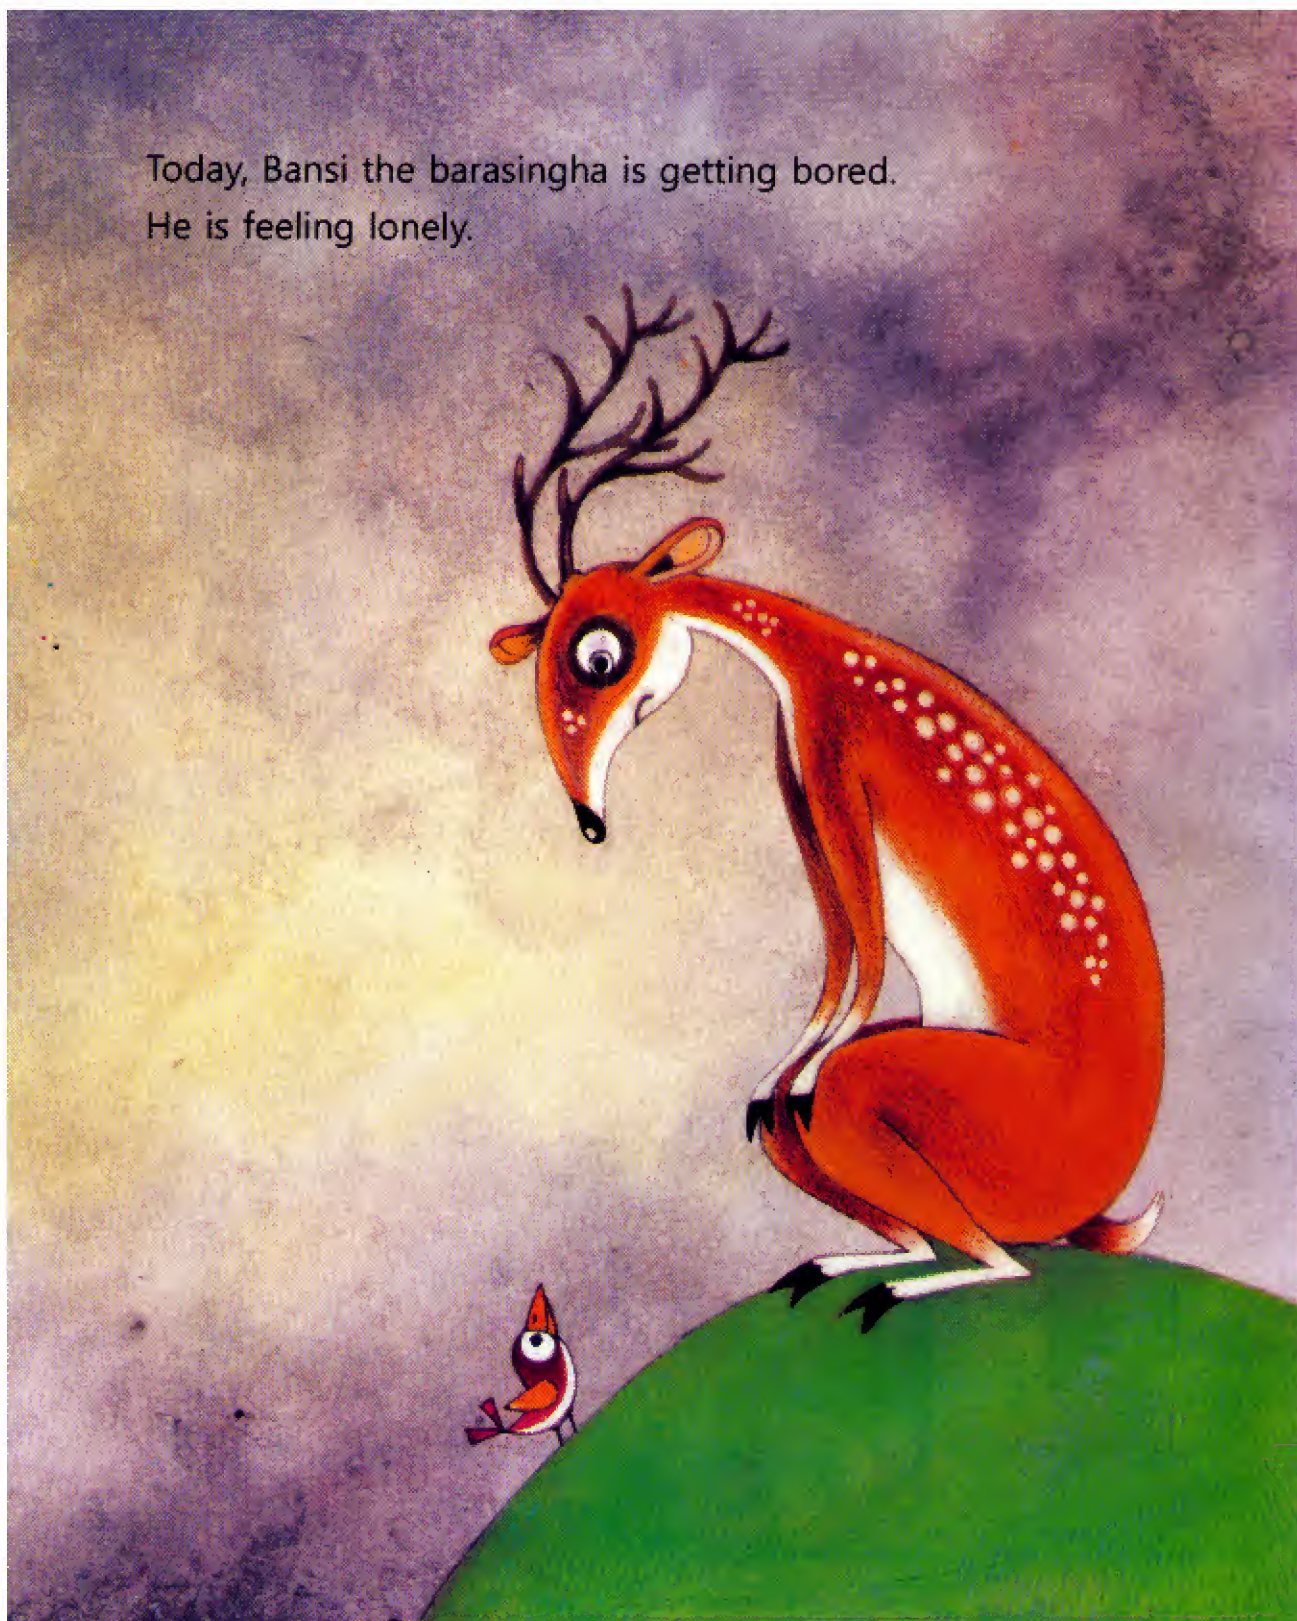

Concept & Art: Samaresh Chatterjee

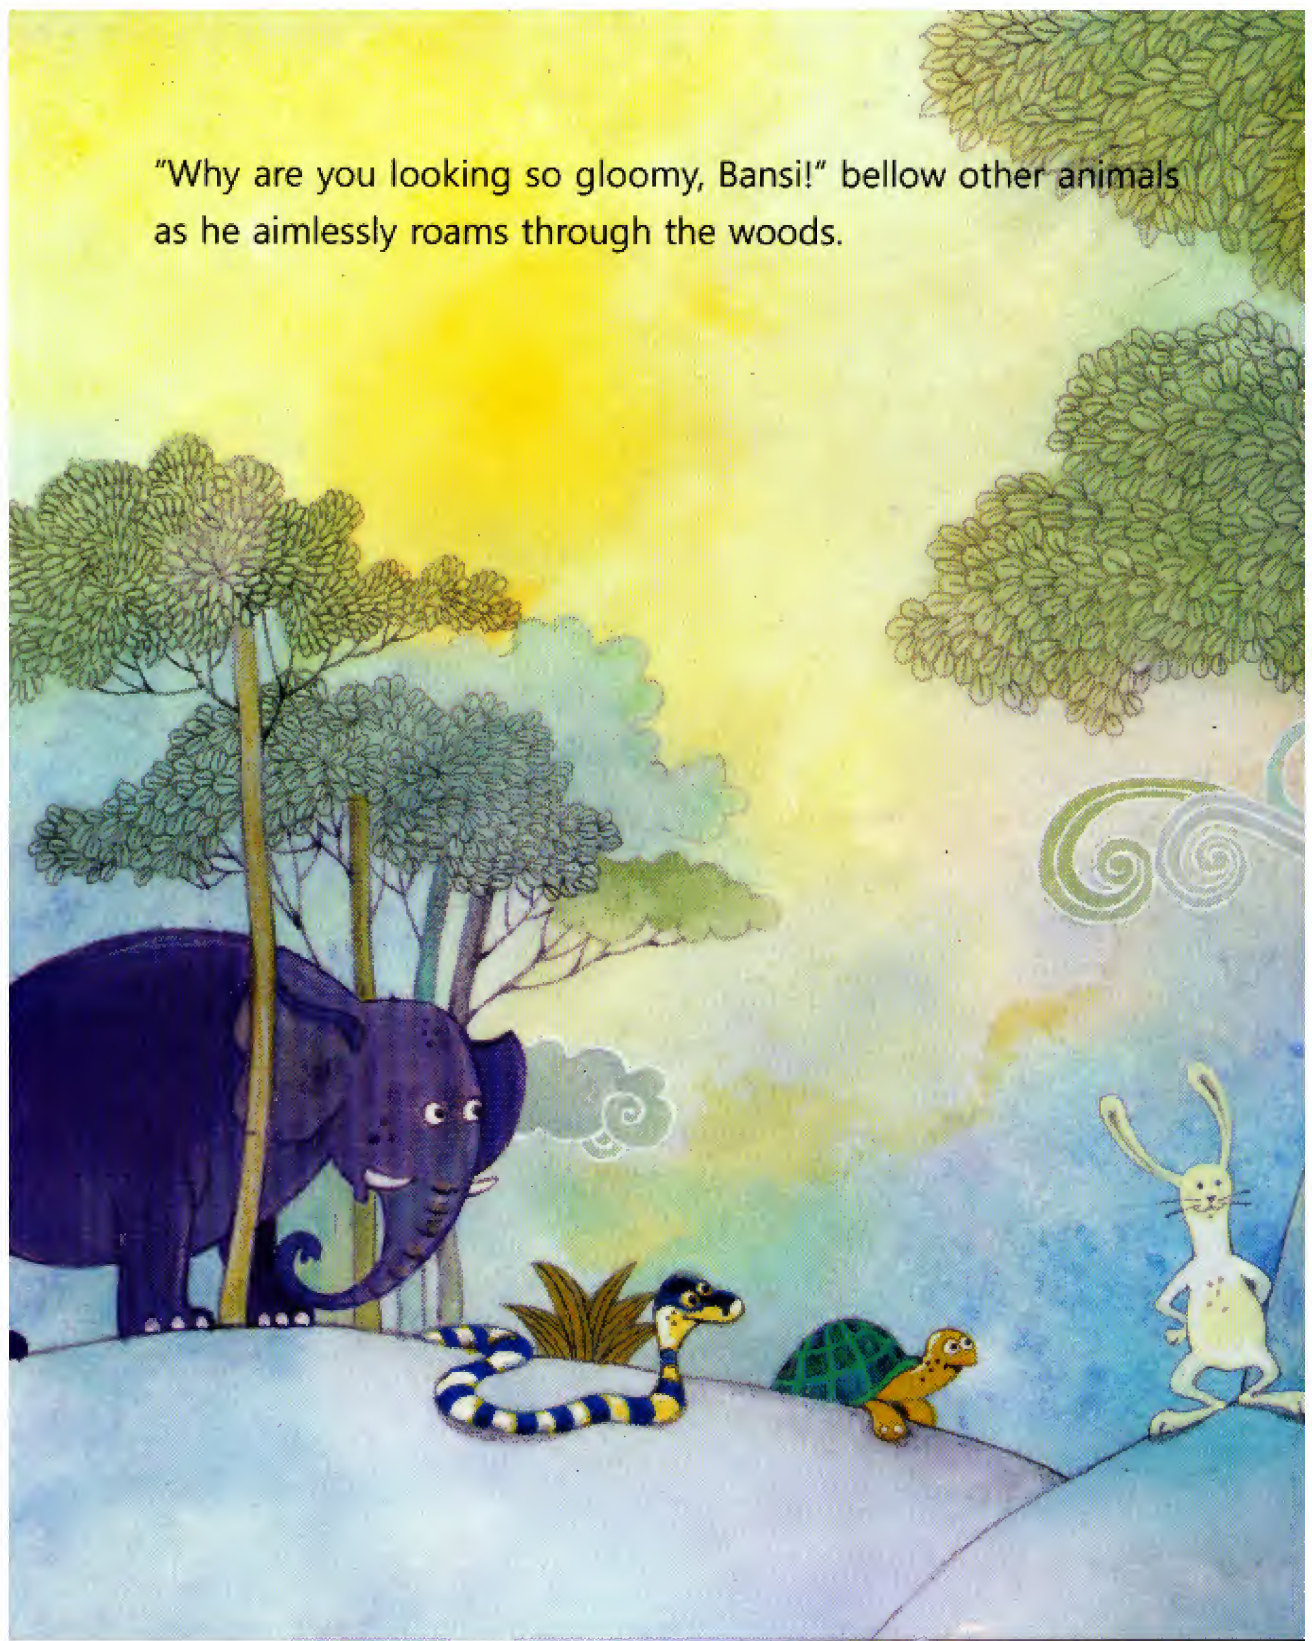

NATIONAL BOOK TRUST, INDIA

Today, Bansi the barasingha is getting bored.
He is feeling lonely.

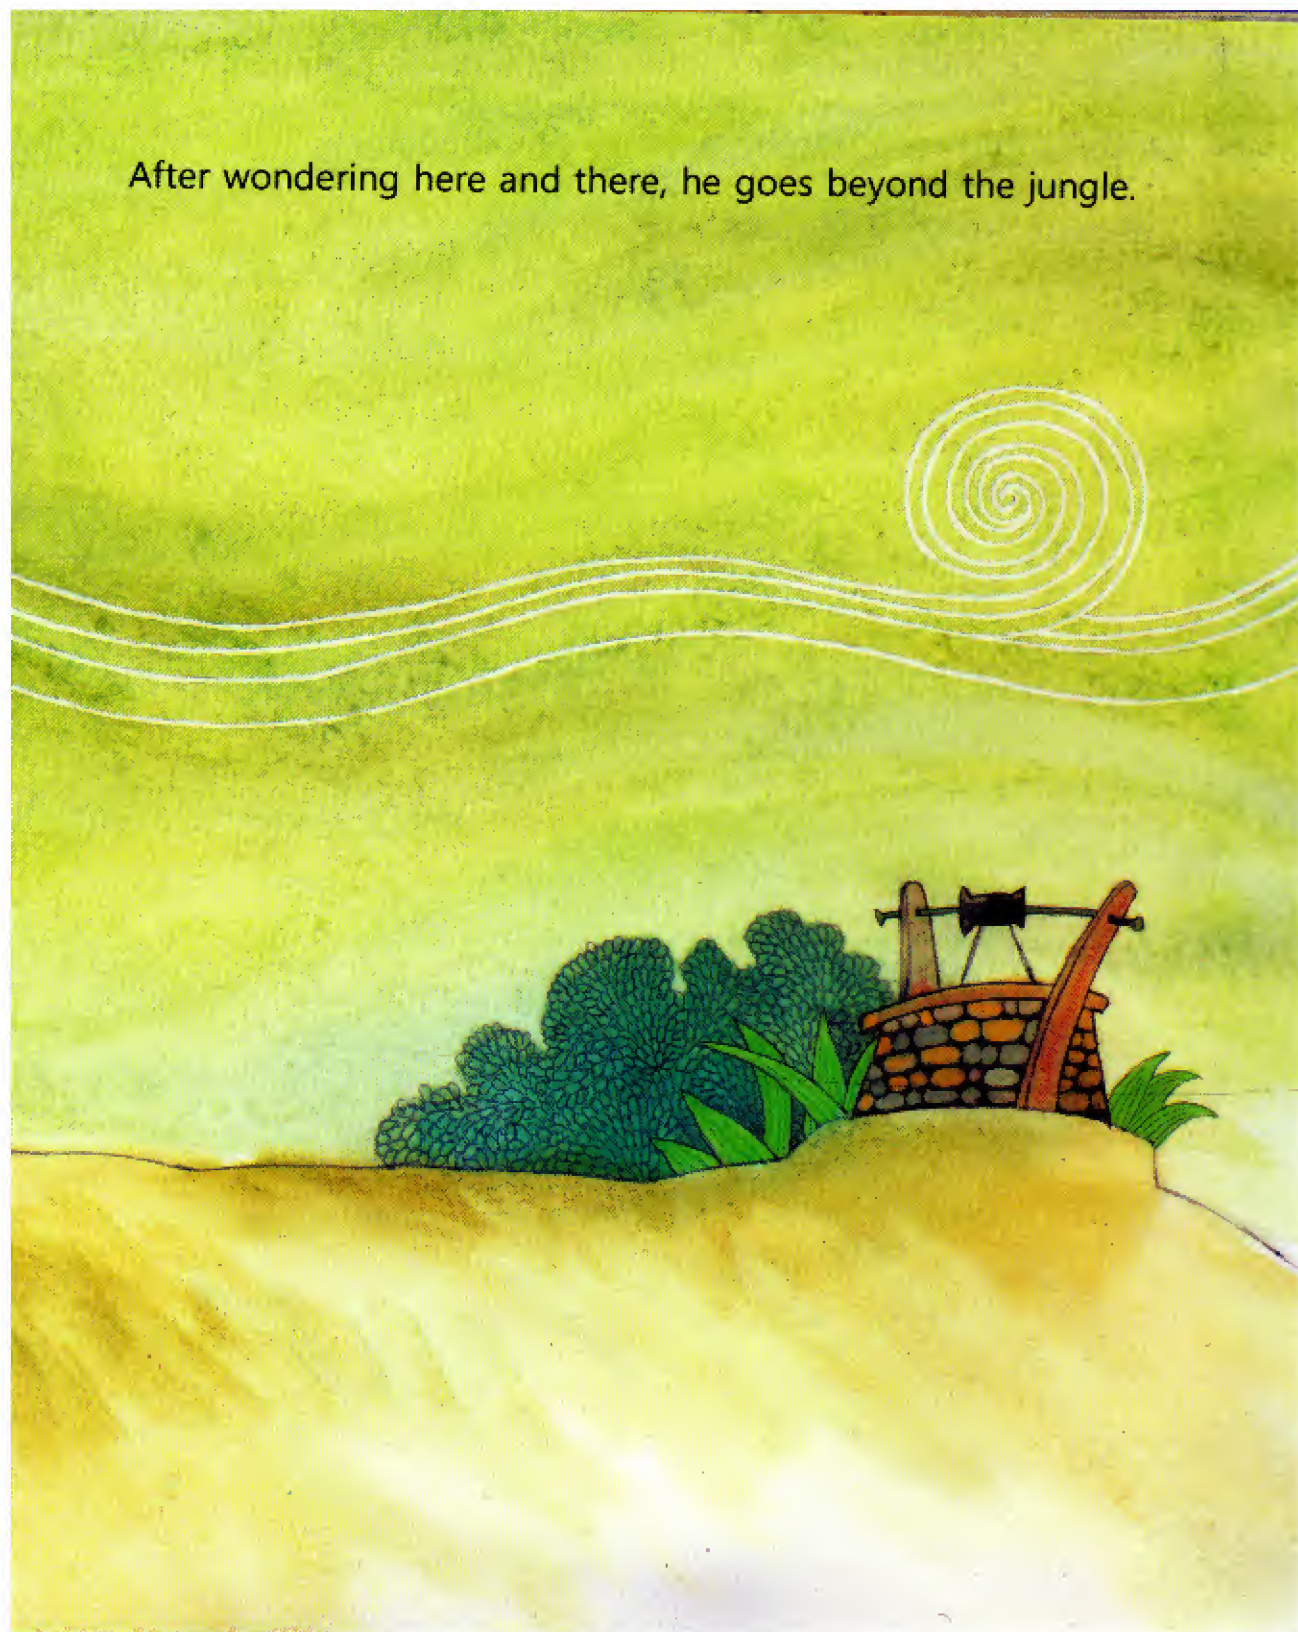

"Why are you looking so gloomy, Bansil!" bellow other animals as he aimlessly roams through the woods.

After wondering here and there, he goes beyond the jungle.

In a clearing, he spots some children swinging from the trees.

"I would love to join them but . . ." he thinks.

Since it is becoming dark, children begin to return home.

Bansi also proceeds homewards.

All at once Bansi's nose begins to twitch. He holds his head high to look around.

There, on the edge of the treeline, above a mound, a little girl is sitting alone.

Bansi hesitantly goes near her.

"I have hurt my leg and I can't walk," the little girl complains.

Bansi kneels down.

The little girl slips her arms around his neck and slowly climbs on his back.

Bansi carries her home.

Very soon the little girl reaches home safely.

"You are a real friend!" she announces and ties a bell around his neck.

Bansi lifts his head high and tosses his antlers from side to side.

★ There is a soft tinkling sound of the bell which is like music to him.

This makes Bansi feel great and happy. ★

Under the moonlit sky both friends sit down and start counting the stars . . .

They are not gloomy anymore! *

Printed at M/s Royal Offset Printers, New Delhi.

National Book Trust, India

₹ 25.00
ISBN 812376683-1

9 788123 766836
12131855